The Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission launched its Classic Towns of Greater Philadelphia program today.

Bristol and Doylestown are the only Bucks County municipalities participating in the program along with seven other suburban communities and Philadelphia.

"Classic Towns are communities and neighborhoods that offer a high quality of life and provide people with location choices that minimize automobile dependence, utilize existing infrastructure and regenerate the region's older communities and urban neighborhoods," reads the commission's literature.

At the Philadelphia event each participating community was honored for preserving its history, neighborliness and main-street charm.

Bristol officials attended the morning event.
